

FROM OUCH TO OUTSTANDING

in Business Automation

Don't make automation a big project

Your mindset and tools should adopt to a continuous approach to realizing automation. It should be easy enough for a person or team to do it themselves, without starting a new project every time you want to automate something.

Get your priorities straight, THEN automate

Do your homework first!

Create a DIY experience

Create a custom experience for your employees, so you can reap the full benefits of your investments. Treat your employees as customers!

Meet your people on their own terms

It's time we realize that digitalization is about changing peoples lives and behavior, not only new technology. This means we need to be good leaders who understand how to guide someone from today to tomorrow.

Co-creation and cooperation

You need to be able to co-create and cooperate between departments in order to serve a full employee experience. Take the on-boarding process, for example.
